Jaroff Male Chorus, Dancers Will Appear At Coliseum Dec. 3

Group Gave Performance Here In '50

The Jaroff Male Chorus and Dancers will perform at 8:15 p.m., Dec. 3 in Memorial Coliseum in another of the Community Concert and Lecture

The chorus, formerly known as the Don Cossacks, is on its 30th anniversary U. S. tour. Since 1921, as the original Don Cossacks, the group has given performances throughout Canada. North and South America. They appeared at the University in 1950.

The concert ensemble has presented programs which include folk songs, liturgical music, and classical music. In addition, members of the group perform sword dances and execute a "kazatski," a popular type of Russian dance.

SAS Accused

The State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has announced citations against the two establishments accused of violating state liquor-control laws by the Student Action Society last week.

Jesse Wright, head of the SAS, filed the petition last Friday against the establishments, Robinson's Liquor Store and Crain's Restaurant, charging them with "permitting the SAS action gave Andrew Wallace's name as one of the members who filed the petition, but Wallace has stated that he is no longer a member and that he had no idea he would be listed as a plaintiff.

In the suit, which never appeared in court, SAS was described as an organization dedicated to helping local and state authorities in "securing evidence and obtaining convictions" against persons violating gambling laws. The suit stated that gambling devices were in operation at Robinson's and at Crain's on May 6 and that an employee of Robinson's was arrested, convicted, and paid a fine in police court; that the gambling device in Robinson's was confiscated and ordered destroyed.

Police court records in Lexington show that two persons were arrested on May 8 for violating gambling laws and that both were tried and fined $100 and costs each. Complaints against each of the arrested persons were signed by Wallace, who was then a member of the SAS.

Our Moral Code Lags Behind The Realities Of Athletics

Isn't it about time we stopped playing see no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil with college athletics and started facing facts?

Back in the days when a sentimental warbling of the Alma Mater brought tears to the eyes of graduates and undergraduates alike, the major college sports-football and basketball-may have been played purely for the glory of Old Siwash. That's hardly the situation today.

Modern youth has a realistic, at times, even materialistic approach to life. It matters not whether our attitude stems from the depression of the '30's and the current state of unending war or from some other series of causes. It exists. It's natural then for athletes who are generally just as bright as the next fellow to expect value returned for value

An Idle Query: Who Gets Loot?

One of the more interesting subjects for idle speculation is the question of what becomes of all the money that's forked over by students and faculty members each year in traffic fines. Judging from personal experience and the sad tales of others, the sum must be immense.

The secretary who graciously accepts the fines doesn't get any of it. She's paid out of an annual appropriation from the Student Government Association budget. Likewise the campus policemen who give out tickets with such laudable abandon don't reap any ill-gotten gains. They draw their salaries from the Maintenance and Operations department. The SGA budget doesn't show any indications of swelling from such lucrative operation.

Of course the University wouldn't be so lax as to allow the money to just lie around doing nothing. On the off chance that it is lying around, however, we have a suggestion.

Why not turn the traffic fine proceeds over to SGA so the organization could have a budget that might be able to stretch over some of its student obligations. After all, SGA gets stuck with the bill for the secretary.

UK Library Discourages Students From Studying

Undoubtedly the UK library is one of the finest places in the South to store books. It certainly isn't much good for studying, however.

The clever policy of the powers-that-be must be designed solely for the benefit of those students who need sleep after week-end excesses. Evry morning before the doors are opened to the public, someone religiously sees to it that a full head of steam is up and all the windows are fastened down.

Sleep is a good thing, but it's not much help when you're trying to study the small, rather dim print of some thick volume in preparation for a nasty midsemester. Would it be sacrilege to suggest that more students might evince an interest in books and learning if once and awhile a few cool, stimulating breezes were allowed to sweep gently through the library's majestic rooms?

The wise high school basketball or football player, knowing that society will give him an education in return for the use of his muscles, is careful, like all shrewd shoppers, to pick the bargain that offers the best return for his time and talent.

For some reason, however, many of us try to ignore the realities. We attempt to live in a dream world and it just won't work. In many respects our thinking is as antiquated as that of the people who passed laws requiring early motorists to post signs on the county courthouse warning the populace when they intended to take their "devil's invention" out for a drive.

This week has seen revelations of moral laxity at two more large institutions-Tennessee and Michigan State College. The fact that one of these is a Southern and the other a Midwestern university indicates the falseness of the old claim that athletic programs in one part of the country are more pure than they are in another section.

Although the activities exposed at these schools would be wrong from any standpoint, we think they are a result of attempts to cover up other, less evil practices that are common to any university that engages in big-time athletics.

Let's face it-big-time sports is a money maker. Those who take part in it are entitled to pay just like any other group of laborers. As far as absolute morality is concerned, we don't hear any of the deemphasis advocates crying out against the sinfullness of some "sugar daddy" putting a boy through school who has unusual ability as a scholar, musician, or debater. Why then discriminate against

Speeding Traffic Endangers Lives

Students literally take their lives in hand whenever they cross Rose Street anywhere from Euclid Avenue on up past the men's dormitories. Heavy traffic during morning and evening rush hours makes it even more dangerous for unwary pedes-

Although there are definite speed limits for both residential areas and school zones, neither the city police nor campus officers seem to be even trying to enforce them. Cars, buses, and occasional trucks completely ignore the large number of walking students in this two-block area and often reach speeds of 30, 40, and even 50 miles an hour.

The marked cross walk and signal light on Limestone at least give students some slight chance to dodge speeding automobiles, although the situation there is far from satisfactory. It may be that city and campus police are so shorthanded that they can't spare men to control traffic around the University. A minimum amount of protection could be provided, however, by putting up a signal light and crosswalk on Rose Street. Large warning signs could be put up too, announcing that the area is a school zone.

If something isn't done about the situation soon, some unfortunate student may be seriously injured or even killed because he failed to jump fast enough to escape a recklessly speeding motorist.

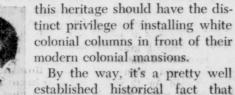

Pioneer Is Honored This Week, Genius Has Job Frustrations

By PAUL KNAPP

This week has been set aside to commemorate the 200th birthday of that indomitable frontiersman, George Rogers Clark. While paying tribute to the famed Clark, we shouldn't forget that group of fine old Southern aristocrats who proudly claim lineal descent from him.

It is indeed a distinction to be related to one of history's more colorful characters. Those who claim course, it couldn't happen here. The situation concerned a certain intellectual who keeps his billfold well padded by writing term papers, English themes, and other research papers for those not so well endowed as he is with brains

In order to keep his business from being discovered by the teachers, he writes these papers in accordance with the grades that the student hiring him has received all along in the class. In other words he writes a C paper for a C student, etc. Of course for a D or E student, he writes a C paper, hoping that the instructor will think it a stroke of genius.

The pay for the services of this brain runs from an E paper-guaranteed-for only 35 cents to enormous undisclosed amounts for doctoral dis-

The frustration that was mentioned comes from the occasional quirk of fate that causes one of the instructors to place a lower grade on a paper than the professional writer thought it was worth.

In these few instances the student comes back to him demanding that he refund the difference in the rate of the grade that he wanted and the grade that he got on the paper. This causes no end of professional embarrassment.

How frustrated can you get? He can't go over to see the instructor of the course and say "I was writing English themes around here when you were in knee pants, and I know a C paper when I write

About the only consolation he has is that he can make a nice memorial plaque in remembrance of the numerous Phi Beta Kappa's he has gotten through school.

You only go to college 14 days a year, according to some fancy figuring done by the student newspaper at Southeastern State College in Oklahoma.

A third of each 365 days is spent sleeping—eight hours a day. That leaves 243 days. Count off 52 Sundays, three months of summer vacation and half an hour a day for lunch. That leaves 91 days.

Now subtract 52 Saturdays because only freshmen have Saturday classes, two weeks for Christmas vacation and the odd days for Thanksgiving, Easter, and between semesters. That brings it down to two weeks a year of actual class time.

Victory Holiday Is Legally Out, President Rules

By KATHY FRYER

What would happen if the Wildcats beat Tennessee Saturday? Besides making history and thrilling even the most lukewarm sports fan, would would it automatically mean a holiday on Monday? It wouldn't, said President Donovan when I asked him last week.

"The faculty committee makes up the calendar, and I don't have the power to change it," he explained during our meeting.

There are certain powers the president does not have, contrary to popular student opinion, and calling a holiday seems to be one of them.

Dr. Donovan laughingly called my idea "a little optimistic," but thought that if such a thing did happen, we would probably have a spontaneous celebration in the Coliseum Sunday afternoon. However, as a friend of mine shrewdly commented the other day, if we beat the Vols and no-

Our Readers Speak: Sorrowing Fan Reports Meilinger Is Ineligible

Dear Editor:

As a loyal alumnus of the University, my heart is heavy as I find myself compelled to reveal the facts about an incident that occurred between myself and Steve Meilinger.

The case is simple but the mistake is there. Last spring, I had a chance meeting with Steve which I enjoyed very much. As we were about to part I offered to buy him a pack of cigarettes. Dutifully he declined, but in the end I prevailed upon him to accept them. And so, without forethought I scarred this young man's reputation and his standing as an amateur.

It is not easy for me to disclose these facts, but I feel it is better for Steve, the University and myself to admit them now than to have them ferreted out later by that able and fair minded person, Mr. Bernie Moore.

Of course this will suspend Steve from playing football at the University but I intend to stand behind him, Should there be any mention of a penitentiary offense I intend to appeal to Judge Saul Streit who, despite all the dope selling, sex offenses, gambling, etc. that is prevalent in his district of New York, will be glad to hear our case.

Lucian Answers A Letter

Dear Editor:

In last week's Kernel there appeared a letter signed by Six Disillusioned Sports Fans. They admitted that they came to UK to see a great team in action. However they did not say that they came here for that reason only, therefore I assume that they had other reasons.

On this assumption that they had other reasons, I would like to take issue with their request for a rebate on their I-D cards. True, they paid for an I-D card which would have admitted them to all of the home games. Now there are to be no home games. I can see how it would come to their minds that a request for a rebate would not be an unreasonable demand. However, my purpose in disagreeing is based on the assumption that even if basketball is out for the year, the expenses of maintaing the Memorial Coliseum were not eliminated by the torial service, et al. M&O takes care of these and it is a separate arm of the University, but an arm that must be supported.

These expenses are such mundane things as heat, for the team will continue to practice, light, jani-

The University will have a team next year which will be well worth supporting, and I think that the money spent by each of us may be considered money well invested, if it does anything toward improving the University's athletic program, or any other part of it.

One other point-each student paid around $16.40 for the I-D card. This covers football, basketball, baseball, the swimming pool, intramural sports, community concerts, and other things. Dividing by only the things here mentioned, the rebate would be only about $2.83. Tell me now, is it worth it?

I don't want the writers of the other letter to think I am taking them to task, or shouting as a real rah rah boy that we should give everything to the school. I am just as good a sport as anyone on the campus, and I keep just as quiet as the next fan at ball games, etc. so you see I am really just one of the boys. I just happen to disagree with their view-

Dorm Food Is Attacked

Dear Editor:

An eternal complaint around the girls' dormitory has to do with the food served in the dorm cafeteria, and, in my estimation, it's a reasonable gripe.

Lack of variety, poor preparation, and tastelessness are just a few of the many reasons the girls don't enjoy eating in the dormitory. If the meat served is of high grade, it's difficult to discover . . . most of it is hidden under "sauces" or disguised in some other fashion. If best grade meat can not be obtained, due to the limited budget which I am sure the dietitian has to maintain, at least it could be prepared and served in a more appetizing man-

Why wouldn't it be possible for students to have a Are they better for their education if they are still choice of either paying board at the dormitory or taking their meals elsewhere?

Typical of the food available is the soup which is served on the average of five days a week. Fortunately, some choice is offered as to the flavor . . potato, vegetable, and bean soup are usually alternated, with chili sometimes substituted for "variety's" sake. The attempt fails.

The only good I can see in eating at the dorm is that it affords a greater appreciation for "Mother's cooking." If steps aren't taken to improve the food situation there, the number of girls who will get sick, food poisoning is a better term, will surely in-

Petty Thievery Denounced

I have several times felt almost strongly enough on certain matters to write to you, and there occurred recently an experience which has moved me to reflect on student integrity.

A few days ago Eta Kappa Nu, Electrical Engineering honorary, held its fall initiation in the "Y" lounge of the Student Union. Being recording secretary of the organization, I had with me that night the minute book of the organization. In the excitement of the occasion and the banquet which followed I forgot the notebook in which the minutes. are entered and left it in the lounge. I did not miss the book until a few days later, upon which I went back to the "Y" lounge to look for it. I did not find the notebook, but instead the sheets which contained the minutes, the binder and a few clean

Our Grammar Criticized

Dear Editor:

Away back yonder in the early days of this century when Alexander St. Clair (Sandy) MacKenzie was responsible for the English used by UK freshmen, we were taught that we should say "botanic," not "botanical" gardens. In those days, the only thing that adverbs could modify was the verb.

Your use of "botanical" in a recent story about the gardens is, I believe, although quite common, still incorrect. The English always say "botanic." If I am wrong, please let me know.

A. M. Kirby, '07

Editor's Note-Webster's Second International Dictionary, second edition, unabridged, gives "botanical" as the preferred usage, although it does give a usage of "botanic gardens." It also says both "botanic" and "botanical" are adjectives, not adverbs, when they're used to modify a noun. It looks like we're both right, Mr. Kirby.

Dick Shatto's Home Is Damaged By Fire

The home of Dick Shatto, UK football player, was damaged by fire last Tuesday. The fire caused several hundred dollars damages to the ise and furnishings.

Firemen said the fire began in back of a hot plate and swept across a wall and ceiling. The cause of the fire was not definitely determined, although firemen said it was probably due to faulty wiring in the hot plate.

Quiet in the studio, please! Fanfare! And now, the Stirrup Cup is proud to present Robert Lowell Maranville as Colonel of the Week!

He's done just about every job there is at WBKY-producing, acting, directing, engineering, and writing. He's had two original dramas produced, and was engineer and/or announcer for several programs in the "Community Kentucky" series, now being broadcast over 33 stations in the state. He was a staff announcer at WVLK last year, and is now announcing for WLAP.

Bob, a native of Hazard, is a veteran—he spent a year and a half in the MP's at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., but, he says, "didn't get to where anything was going on." His wife, Barbara, is a College of Commerce senior. Their pet cocker spaniel, Black Bear the Eighth, is called Bebe for short.

Somehow Bob found time in those crowded seven semesters for other activities—he's a Sigma Phi Epsilon pledge, was chosen a Distinguished Military Student in April 1951, is a member of Scabbard and Blade, in the Patterson Literary Society, and has been in the Bar-Bell Club, a weight-lifting group. He was in the Guignol one-act plays last year, is a Troupers master of ceremonies, and for the last two years has handled the Marching 100's public address system at games.

Several possibilities for improvement of social life on the UK campus have been recommended by the students who attended meeting of the conference. The recommendations were organization of students into class groups, more mixing of religious groups, more all-campus affairs for little or no fee, the Student Union building opened on the weekend and sponsored activities. more mixing of Greeks and independents, more parties of various kinds in dorms, a dating agency, and discussions of the problems we have faced here in the Dating and Courtship Conference in all of the residence houses.

Confession? - Ask The Man Who Goes There!

Catholics go to Confession to a priest for one reason only: to obtain divine forgiveness for their sins. But why, you ask, go to our sins directly to God? Ask the man who goes to Confession and here's what he will tell you: Sin is an offense against God, it must be forgiven by God. It is God, not man, who determines how forgiveness must be obtained. Christ plainly pointed this out when He empowered His Apostles and their successors to forgive sins or to refuse forgiveness. "Whose sins you shall forgive,"

Christ said, "they are forgiven them; whose sins you shall retain, they are retained." (John 20:21-23). Thus Christ authorized the Apostles, and their successors, to pardon or to deny pardon as they judged the sinner worthy or unworthy. To do this they had to know what they were forgiving ... the secret dispositions of the sinner ... his sorrow and willingness to repair the wrong done to his neighbor by his sins. Who could make this known but the sinner himself-and what is this but Confession?

But Confession—the Sacrament of Penance - is only one of the seven Sacraments Christ left in His life? Then write today for a free Church. Yes, seven - no more and no less! Christ's religion is not information concerning them, Ask merely a message to be accepted, for Pamphlet No. 5-N.

but a life to be lived-from the cradle to the grave. Christ's seven Sacraments are the answer to man's seven basic needs.

Man is born, but he needs to be reborn a Christian in the Sacrament of Baptism. He is nourished, but he needs Christian nourishment in Holy Communion, the Sacrament of the Eucharist. He grows, but he needs to grow and be strengthened in Christian life by the Sacrament of Confirmation. He is cured of disease, but he needs a remedy for sin, so destructive of Christian life, and this he finds in the Sacrament

Man lives in society which needs officials to promote the common good - and for his life in the Church, he finds officials provided by the Sacrament of Orders. He perpetuates the human race in marriage, which Christ made the Sacrament of Matrimony. And at death, he needs consolation and strength for the last dread hour which he finds in the Last Anointing - the Sacrament of Extreme

Would you like to know more about each of the seven Sacraments? How they can help you to meet the seven basic needs of your pamphlet which gives important

Several years ago Lexington's chapter of the WCTU objected pendent Dan Wish. to its being called a "beer keg," the title of "water keg" was applied. The more popular version couldn't be suppressed, however, and the barrel's one-time malt contents were once again revealed

Many interesting things have happened during the feud with Tennessee and not all of them occured on the field. In 1944 when the Cats headed south for Knoxville, just 15 miles out of Knoxville a tunnel on the railroad fell in, the train reached town 16 hours late. No passage for cars or busses was available, as the dirt avalanche had happened in an inaccessible spot in the mountains. The Wildcats were due in Knoxville at three o'clock in the afternoon, they arrived at five o'clock the next morning. Best laugh of the whole incident was the fact that many of the out of state players took all the ribbing about Tennessee and Kentucky mountaineers seriously. They wouldn't even leave the train to stretch their legs, so certain were they of feudin' hillbillies, or "revenooers." One of the sidelights of the trip and game that year was Tennessee's 26-13 win over the Cats.

Members of the UK cross-country team have been giving the football players a rough way to go this week. Their win over the Vol harriers two weeks ago marked the first defeat they had suffered in four years. Jay Wallace passes on this bit of advice to the gridders "get them (the Vols) in the hole and never give them a chance to come out."

One of the sidelights of last week's triangular meet with Berea and Morehead was the performance turned in by one of Morehead's runners. Coburn Black, a junior in Agriculture and Industrial Arts never did any formal running before going out for the crosscountry team at Morehead. Black, however, admits that he used to do quite a bit of running, as a kid, back on the farm. He finished 14th but the thing that is so outstanding about Black's performances is his age. He is 43 years old.

Tennessee and Kentucky have long been notorious spoilers of each tie with Mississippi before they reg- other's good records and bowl aspirations, and this year's contest is gaining a lot of attention for the very reason that the Wildcats would like nothing better than to embarrass the bowl-bound Volunteers.

Rivalry Began In 1893

One of the oldest rivalries in the nation, the Kentucky-Tennessee grid history goes back to the 1893 season. Significantly, the series got off to an auspicious start as old Kentucky U. walloped the Vols 56-0, a margin of victory that has never been equalled in the 46 games played in the 59 years since.

Kentucky has won 11 gara, Tennessee 29, with seven games ending in ties. The Wildcats' last victory came in 1935 by 27-0 while General Neyland was on Army duty in Panama. Prior to that year, Kentucky was successful in 1925, the ear before the veteran mentor began coaching at Tennessee.

Radiocasts of the game which begins at 1 p.m. Central Standard Time will be carried by WLAP, WLEX, and WHAS.

and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields - 10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the sixmonths period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."
